

Training & Workshops

The Solace range of training and workshops are designed to do two things. First, move you or your team from a fuzzy understanding of how Solace works, to a firm grip of both theory and practice. You go from not being quite so sure, to solving issues, and suggesting enhancements that improve daily workflow and the business bottom line.

Second, we stop those gains from slipping away. Using your Academy membership, you are first to learn about new features. With a wide content spread, you tap into learning at the time you need it. Through our Workshops with experts, you drive the agenda. Want to zone in on scenarios, dive into troubleshooting or improve the flow? You can do it all.

How does our Education give you the edge?

DESIGNED FOR DOING

Have you ever sat (suffered?) through a training class full of talk, mostly theoretical, with little immediate applicability or resounding reason to learn?

Our classes, both online and in-person, are powered for application. A focus on the business and performance context, enough concepts for you to get the 'aha', and lab exercises to get you clicking with assured understanding. Our visuals are so good you'll want to print them out, stick them up, and share them with others.

ROLE SPECIFIC

How can you know what you need to know when confronted with so many options?

We remove the stress, and shrink the journey time, by designing classes around recognizable requirements. Developers, Architects, and Administrators all have a defined path to follow. Managers who want a broad view, and Middleware teams interested in Solace handshakes and integration are also covered.

CERTIFIED PROOF

Plenty of people claim competence, but can't prove it. Others have the competence but no way to display it. Our certification programme is the finish point for the paths above. With the effort comes the rewards; industry recognized certification that boosts reputations, builds a career edge and settles arguments about who really knows how Solace works.

Why Training & Workshops?

- Starting from scratch, do you want to learn with the crowd — or would you rather figure it all out at your pace, starting at your own level, and arriving where you need to be?
- Packing some experience with Solace, do you want to sit through generic content — or be educated in intensive 2-3 hour workshops specific to your situation?
- After accruing serious ability and skill, do you want to blend into the crowd — or add value and trust with credible and publicly recognized certifications?
- As the owner of the team, or responsibility for results, do you want a faceless email back and forth — or would you rather have a training specific contact providing direction beforehand, and a dashboard of results after?

Plans and Duration

Training and Workshops are available with Essential and Advanced Support Annual Subscription Plans.

“My team includes people who know EDA, Microservices and Messaging — along with novices and fresh graduates. I need a way to get each of them up to speed with the least time and money spent. Until they prove their skill, I can’t trust them with our business critical software.”

How it works, what it includes (and what it doesn’t).

Training should not be a hassle to organize, a distraction to manage or tricky to show value gained. Here’s how we make education into a smooth addition :

LAUNCH CONVERSATION

Introduced to your training contact, we work through a simple list. Who do you have to get trained, what are your time and availability constraints, and how can we help layer our content into your educational flow. Any reporting requirements to track progress and show value-add?

INTO THE ACADEMY

Greeted by a welcoming interface, your team can start learning based on existing paths, or take a fresh newbie approach to the content. Start from Event Driven basics all the way to certified mastery in five different paths.

TIME FOR THE WORKSHOPS

You are packing Academy knowledge plus some experience in deploying Solace solutions. Questions start popping up. The type that are so site-specific it isn’t answered in the Academy, or so specific to your team that an expert-led session is the answer.

It’s Workshop time.

Back in touch with your training contact, we narrow down the agenda, work on dates and names, get the Workshop scheduled. Delivered by an experienced expert, your team will get a blend of theory, use-cases, applications, hands-on where possible and handouts. Within a week, the recording will be uploaded to your Academy account ready for others to view.

Next month (with Advanced Support), or next quarter (with Essential) we repeat the process. More details = depth = doing.

Workshops work.
